Disclosure, funding sources:

All views I express as a teacher, scholar, editor member of an academic committee or in any other role as a university professor are strictly my own independent opinion.

Donors for projects with which I am associated come from sources that include:

- The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (Grants in Aid of Scholarly Journals);
- The Asper Chair Endowment;
- The Legal Research Institute of the University of Manitoba (law journals, various research projects);
- The Canadian Credit Management Foundation fellows program (for summer students working on the Asper Review);

- The Canadian Credit Management Fund for International Business and Trade Law Conferences (annual International law conference);
- The Asper Family Foundation;
- Canadian Friends of Hebrew University;
- The Jewish Foundation of Manitoba (student subsidies to participate in the Israel and International Law Program, all for student subsidies for the Mishpatim program); and
- The Faculty of Law Endowment Fund (for Manitoba Law Journal projects).

As counsel for the law firm Pitblado LLP, I carry out professional practice for various clients that include First Nations and the Planning and Priorities Secretariat of the Provincial Government. I also serve on an international dispute resolution panel (Bilcon v Delaware), with the costs shared by the parties, and as an adjudicator under the Canada Labour Code.
